Our New City Hall
Mayor Carmen R. Freeman

Recently, we moved into our new city hall located across the street from the Salt Lake County Recreational Center. This marvelous building, will be a great addition to our city and advance our receptiveness to the needs of a growing community. Because of the size of this building we can now put our entire city staff in a collaborative environment under one roof that was not possible previously due to the size of our old city hall. Under this arrangement, we are now in a position to provide greater service and responsiveness to our residents.

In addition to enhancing our city services, the Unified Police will also be housed in our new city hall. This will eliminate the cost of leasing office space for law enforcement and provide a work environment in which we can work closely with this agency in protecting our residents and ensuring their safety.

Our residents are also beneficiaries of this new building. A large and spacious multi-purpose room will be available for the scheduling of weddings and other family gatherings. Additionally, there are four beautiful conference rooms available that residents can schedule for meetings and other gatherings.

South of the city hall will be a spacious five acre park that will have such amenities as an ice skating rink, splash pad, historic walk, gazebo for weddings, play area for children and an amphitheater. In addition to the amenities, we hope it will be a place to come and just relax, talk to friends and neighbors or just to enjoy reading a book. At this community setting, this gathering place, we hope to have a number of food and snack vendors as well as retail stores to meet the needs of those who come and gather.

On September 22nd at 3:00 pm, we will have a ribbon cutting followed by public tours of the building. There will also be activities at the park from 3-9 pm to commemorate this historic event. We welcome our residents and neighbors from surrounding communities to come and join us for this fun and educational occasion.

We are deeply grateful to Layton Construction and GSBS Architects for their dedication of time and money on this project. Their vision and insight has created a building and park that will serve our community for the next 50 years.

In preparing this city hall and associated park, our vision was to make it a place to gather and enhance our community spirit and unity. As our residents come and enjoy the benefits of their new city hall and community park, it will fortify our declaration that Herriman is truly a place to call home.
Greetings fellow Herriman residents! Thank you for the opportunity to come home and serve my own community. My name is Chad Reyes and I’ve recently been selected to serve you as the new executive lieutenant of the Herriman Precinct. It’s an honor and an honor I look forward to the future.

As a native Utahn, I spent my entire childhood in Murray and we ran deep there. At the age of 17, I left home and joined the US Navy, where I had the chance to live in other states. While in these other states, it became clear to me that although those states were nice to visit, Utah was the place for me.

After completing my military commitment, I returned home and shortly thereafter began my law enforcement career in 1999. I was initially hired as a correctional officer in the Salt Lake County Jail and I remained there for a little over a year. I then transferred to the law enforcement side of the Sheriff’s Office and my first assignment was in the old South Patrol Division (Herriman, Riverton, Bluffdale and Cottonwood Heights). The rest is history. I immediately fell in love with our small city, bought a house and began raising my family here years ago. My roots are now firmly planted and growing strong in Herriman.

During my 19 years with the Sheriff’s Office/Unified Police Department, I’ve had many opportunities. As I mentioned, I began in the jail, moved to patrol, worked in traffic, and spent over eight years as an investigator in our Violent Crimes Unit (robbery/homicide). I then was promoted to sergeant, where I returned to patrol for a short time before being lucky enough to lend my dream job supervising our amazing K9 unit.

I’ve had many dogs over my lifetime, but in K9 I received a blessing not many officers, let alone people, have the good fortune of receiving: I was lucky enough to land my dream job: supervising our amazing K9 unit.

Dingo was a dog, but to me, he was so much more and will live on in my heart. Dingo and I served together for five years. We learned a lot from each other until our time was tragically cut short on July 6th of this year, when Dingo gave his life to save my own; and likely the lives of other officers present during an attempted arrest of a wanted fugitive. Yes, Dingo was a four-legged partner, Dingo. Dingo and I served together for five years. Yes, Dingo was a dog, but to me, he was so much more and will live on in my heart as a hero. A loyal partner who on more than one occasion made sure I’d be able to return home to family that he and I love so much.

The lessons I learned from Dingo and from my experiences during my career that I hold most dear are: compassion, loyalty, service and respect. It is my promise to employ these guiding principles in all aspects of my life. Again, I’m extremely grateful to be afforded this opportunity; the chance to get to know more of my neighbors and make more friends. Thank you!

On September 13, 2017, the City Council will hold a public hearing and consideration with the intent to approve an ordinance for an amendment to the 2025 General Plan during their City Council meeting. The City Council has met together multiple times with City officials and the public in order to gather all of the necessary information and opinions as they piece together a proper plan that will meet the current and future needs of the city and its residents. In order to help inform residents of the proposed changes, below is the proposed plan with changes along with the category descriptions and percentage breakdowns.

Additionally, these maps have been available for viewing at City Hall and on Herriman.org to allow residents a closer look not only at the plan as a whole but specific areas in question.

Along with sharing the maps at City Hall, public comment has also been gathered. Residents who desire to further make their views known may attend the September 13th City Council meeting and participate in the public hearing or email members of the Council with comments and questions.

Due to the horrific fires that took place recently in London, Hawaii and Dubai, Herriman Building Department would like to address any concerns that may come up with structures in Herriman.

The apartment building in London had recently been re-cladded on the exterior with a combustible product. According to news reports, the product used in London was illegal due to the fact that the interior insulation (between the 2 outer materials) had shown to be combustible when tested. The reports have stated this product is illegal in many countries, including the U.S.

In Herriman, as in all of the state of Utah, we require all materials used in any construction to meet strict industry safety standards. Manufacturers of construction products are required to submit for testing through several agencies. The results are compiled by the International Code Council (ICC) in the form of Evaluation Services (ES) reports. Our inspectors routinely require copies of ES reports when they observe that an unfamiliar product is proposed to be used on a project. This applies to both residential and commercial construction and is usually addressed during the plan review process. Additionally, our building inspectors follow up with the same procedure when they observe unfamiliar products during inspections of active construction.

Even approved products often have restrictions that we watch for during inspections to make sure they are installed properly. For example, a polypropylene siding cannot be installed on walls of residential buildings that are closer than 10’ in distance from each other. In specific situations of commercial construction, combustible exterior wall coverings cannot be placed higher than 40’, and only on the highest rated non-combustible building material. We also closely regulate the safe path of exit travel in case a fire does occur. We hope this information will put any concerns to rest. We continue to work closely with Unified Fire Authority to ensure compliance for all new construction in our city. The safety of residents and the public is our highest priority.

In preparing for the construction of the new city hall, the city had set aside funds for a portion of the capital costs which were supplemented with a franchise and sales tax revenue bond, $15 million of which was for construction of city hall. It is important to note the bonds payments already existing in the city revenue when the bond was approved; no tax increases were necessary. Because of the city’s great AAA+ bond rating (comparable to an individual credit score of 800), a very low interest rate of 3.138% was secured. Not only are the bond payments already available from current revenue sources, new revenues from the future Walmart Supercenter, other areas of growth and fund reserves associated with Main Street development are forecast to exceed the bond payment required.

While candidates need to reside in Salt Lake County, all residents of the county are encouraged to apply. The political campaign will serve a 2-year term and be invited to attend various events with Salt Lake County Animal Services and other Salt Lake County events.

This project is part of an expansion of Jordan Valley Water Conservancy District’s (JWVCD) water distribution system to better serve the population growth occurring in the southwest corner of the Salt Lake Valley. JWVCD is the largest wholesale water purveyor in the state of Utah. It provides nearly 50% of the water used annually within Herriman City boundaries. Once complete, the large diameter welded steel pipeline will serve a community with a number of municipalities in the surrounding area including Herriman, South Jordan, and West Jordan.

During the construction period, you can expect to encounter modified traffic patterns and partial lane closures along 11800 South and U-111. We will continue to keep our residents informed of the progress of the project through its completion. We thank you for your patience during this time, as this is a vital component to continue to supply Herriman City with a dependable source of water.
